Lord Alverstone and Judge Melvin.

The Sacramento Bee seems unable to forgive Judge Melvin for his ability to sing. That Judge Melvin has a rich, cultivated voice, which he sometimes raises in song, seems to be regarded by our Sacramento contemporary as evidence of a bad heart. It is undignified for a judge to sing in church and at club gatherings, according to the Bee.

That opinion does not prevail in England. Baron Alverstone, Lord Chief Justice of England, is a famous jurist, a wise and incorruptible judge, but he is even more fond of singing than Judge Melvin. He sings in church, at club dinners and at private parties. His vocal performances are not regarded as undignified by his countrymen or as a reflection on his judicial fitness. Rather they make him more popular as a public man and more lovable in social life. The following is an extract from a sketch of Lord Alverstone recently printed in the New York Sun:

"No sketch, however short, of Lord Alverstone would be complete unless it contained some reference to his singing. As athletics is his passion out of doors, music is his love in less strenuous moments. The rich, mellow voice, so impressive on the bench, is turned to account elsewhere in various ways. In the surplined choir of St. Mary's Church, Kensington, the athletic figure of Lord Alverstone is to be seen every Sunday when he is in London. At other times no amateur can troll out with better effect the good old English songs.

"He is an amateur who has taken the trouble to cultivate his voice. It is perhaps no breach of confidence to say that the Lord Chief Justice of England has seldom looked happier or more thoroughly genial than when, on occasion, after singing an old English song at the Savage Club he has been persuaded to follow it up with the judge's song from Gilbert and Sullivan's 'Trial by Jury.' After he has sung the phrase 'And now I am a Judge,' how the members thunder. And a good judge, too! The chorus might almost be heard at the Old Bailey. But at such times the existence of such a place is forgotten."

It is hardly possible that the Bee will measure Judge Melvin by a different rule than it would apply to the Chief Justice of England. But it frequently allows prejudice to usurp the place of candid judgment. It allows partisan zeal to overcome the spirit of fairness. It would do better to take a fairer and more genial tempered view of things. The election is over, and nothing is gained for the public, or anyone else, by girding at men like Judge Melvin for nothing in particular. Referring to Judge Melvin, after his re-election, derisively as a singer is merely an evidence of ill-temper. Judge Melvin sings well, it is true, but he is also an educated, cultivated gentleman, a lover of good books, a trained lawyer and a sound jurist. If the Bee knew him better it would revise its estimate of his character and attainments.

A vast army of Republicans will bear the defeat of Beveridge in Indiana with becoming fortitude. They will not feel his loss keenly nor grieve sorely that he will have to quit posing, for the time being, at least, as the good young man cast amid corrupt associations and striving prayerfully to reform his wicked associates while preserving his own virtue by perpetual vigilance. Beveridge apotheosized himself for voting against the Payne-Aldrich tariff law and by articles in various publications circulated throughout the country seeking to create the impression that the new tariff law had its genesis in improper if not actually corrupt motive. He endeavored to ride Democratic sentiment in his State by repudiating Republican principles and picturing his party associates in the Senate as bad men. Had Indiana gone Republican the victory would have been claimed by Beveridge as the reward of superior virtue and merit. His campaign was an affront to the Republican Congressional nominees of his State, to whose defeat he contributed. But Beveridge has gone down in the run in which he helped envelop other Republican candidates, and his elimination from the Senate will be a great satisfaction to nine-tenths of his colleagues without regard to party. The sincere fanatic always inspires respect, but for the canting opportunist there is only contempt.

Striking at Golden Gate Park.

In San Francisco next Tuesday a number of proposed charter amendments will be voted on. The whole State—we might with truth say the entire Pacific Coast—is interested in one of these amendments, No. 22, which provides that one-half of all the revenue raised for park purposes shall be expended outside of Golden Gate Park.

This proposition is bad in policy because it makes a permanent distribution of the park funds regardless of what future conditions may arise. The immediate effect will be to retard the development of Golden Gate Park, which is the pride of San Francisco and the boast of the entire Pacific Coast. If the amendment carries Golden Gate Park will be deprived of a considerable portion of the money now expended upon its improvement and up-keep. The money taken from Golden Gate Park will be used to develop small parks in the Mission District, which will benefit merely the immediate locality in which they are situated. While these small parks should be improved, they should not be improved at the expense of the great central pleasure ground of the city. Their development should be left to the discretion of the Park Commissioners, who can be trusted to divide the funds at their disposal among the various projects as circumstances require and in accordance with business principles. At times it may be wise to expend more than half the park revenues on the outside parks, but under no circumstances should Golden Gate Park be stinted or neglected that more money may be spent on parks and squares that are minor and purely local as pleasure resorts.

The people on this side of the bay are deeply interested in this matter because thousands of them visit Golden Gate Park and rejoice in its beauties. They are proud of this wonderful creation of human effort, of the splendid triumph over forbidding conditions it presents. It would grieve and disappoint them to see its improvement halted at this stage of its development. Hence they will earnestly pray for the defeat of amendment No. 22.

Golden Gate Park, as it stands today, is the achievement of forty years of unremitting and diligent effort. It was originally a waste of shifting sands. Now it is one of the beauty spots of the world. Every citizen of California regards it with affection, every traveler speaks of it with wonder and admiration. It has advertised San Francisco in every part of the earth—and it is growing more beautiful every day. To halt its development now would be a grave mistake—a blunder almost criminal.

The park management of San Francisco has never been involved in a scandal. It has been notably upright, intelligent and public-spirited. The commissioners have uniformly been men of character and culture who have given the improvement of the parks under their charge the benefit of high-class business experience and the devotion of ardent service. They have spent the money of this disposals wisely and honestly, and the results they have achieved have been enthusiastically commended on both sides of the Atlantic. Their hands should not be tied now. They should be left free to develop the park system as circumstances and conditions dictate. They can be depended upon to do their duty and give all the parks a full share of money and attention. To rob them of their discretion and discriminate against Golden Gate Park would be bad policy from every point of view. Hence amendment No. 22 should be voted down. If adopted it will prove a stumbling block to future progress in park development. We hope it will be defeated.

The defeat of two years ago left the Democrats poverty-stricken for available candidates for the Presidency. Putting the perennial Bryan aside, Harmon of Ohio was the party's forlorn hope. All of a sudden the situation has changed. The Democratic party not only finds itself in a good position for the campaign in 1912 but it has available candidates in plenty. Moreover, Bryan is eliminated as a possible candidate. Harmon's prestige has been raised by his huge majority in Ohio, while Woodrow Wilson's sweeping victory in New Jersey brings him to the front as a Presidential possibility. The big majority given Dix in New York has pushed him into national prominence. Should he make no mistakes as Governor he will be a formidable competitor for the Bourbon nomination. Then there is Gaynor, who, like Roosevelt, is in a class by himself. It is safe to say that Tammany will be behind either Dix or Gaynor, but if both are aspirants the conflict will help Harmon and Wilson, both of whom are certain to be candidates.

Congressman Englebright can now figure out how much advantage he derived from his repudiation of Uncle Joe Cannon. He disowned the Speaker after he had won his renomination, a proceeding that was taken as an evidence of cowardice. At any rate it does not appear to have helped him on election day. Judge Rake has apparently defeated him by a small plurality, making a break in the hitherto solid Republican delegation from California. It is to be hoped Englebright's defeat will not injure San Francisco's chances for the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

The census puts Los Angeles way up in the picture. It shows a growth more wonderful than had been imagined by those who had observed the progress the Angel City was making. At a bound Los Angeles goes ahead of such cities as Minneapolis, St. Paul, Kansas City, Denver, Louisville, Indianapolis, Columbus, Rochester, Newark, Jersey City, Syracuse, Worcester and Toledo. All these cities led her in 1900, but now they are taking the dust from Los Angeles. Talk about going some, it is going to beat the band.

Champ Clark had better be getting his team of mules ready for that drive down Pennsylvania avenue which he boasted he would make if elected Speaker of the House. He appears to have a cinch on Uncle Joe's job, but it is dollars to doughnuts that he will not hold it as long as Uncle Joe did.

Is Life Worth Living?

By REV. W. M. PICKARD, of Grace Methodist Episcopal Church.

"What is your life?"—James 4:14.

You concept of life and use of life will largely determine the question. If you are a pessimist, life is a bad thing, a thing to be avoided, a thing to be feared. If you are an optimist, life is a good thing, a thing to be embraced, a thing to be lived. The pessimist is a man who looks at the dark side of everything. He sees the faults of the world, the sins of men, the sufferings of the poor, and he concludes that life is not worth living. The optimist is a man who looks at the bright side of everything. He sees the beauties of the world, the goodness of men, the joys of the poor, and he concludes that life is worth living.

The church is in an apostate condition, and is losing ground. It has lost its power, its influence, its prestige. It is a blind and a faithless Pharisee. It is a man who is a hypocrite, a man who is a liar, a man who is a thief, a man who is a murderer. It is a man who is a sinner, a man who is a slave, a man who is a slave to sin. It is a man who is a slave to sin, a man who is a slave to sin, a man who is a slave to sin.

The word optimist is derived from the Latin word "optimus," which means "best." The optimist is a man who believes that the world is getting better, that the future is bright, that the end is near. He is a man who is a believer, a man who is a follower, a man who is a servant. He is a man who is a servant, a man who is a servant, a man who is a servant.

Election in Cuba

The Cubans are to have another chance to vote the first of next month, and the fact suggests a not wholly optimistic train of thought. For the Cubans, so far, have not manifested any decided talent for conducting themselves skillfully in the voting booth.

The American government has held itself in readiness to step in and out any number of times, according to the ability of the people of Cuba to paddle their own canoe, and it is more than likely that this country will have to take a hand again sooner or later, because of tempestuous moods and hidden cunning on the part of our little brown brothers.

The second election of President Palma is referred to as having been brought about by fraud, and fears are entertained as to the outcome of the November election.

As a matter of fact, it would be wholly remarkable if the Cubans should demonstrate the ability to make the ship of state sail smoothly so early in the national history as this it may even be intimated that there are still rumors of dishonesty and incompetence in the United States now and then, even after the lessons of a hundred years and more in view of the fact that we talk quite openly of offices bought and a suffrage prostituted, it might even be wise to permit the Cubans to learn, as we have done, how to vote properly, or how to cover their tracks when they vote improperly.—St. Louis Times

20 YEARS AGO IN OAKLAND

Rev. H. H. Rice and Dr. Huntington of West Oakland addressed the city council last night, urging the abatement of the nuisance caused by the deposit of sewage inside the First street railroad embankment and between Market and Peralta streets.

Nearly all the new asphalt pavement between Broadway and Washington street has been found to be badly laid and a force of workmen is going over the job and re-laying the greater part of it.

All this morning was consumed in Justice Snook's court in getting a jury for the purpose of trying the case of John Maher, keeper of a sporting resort at the stockyards, of participating in a dog fight.

The test case of James Vance, steward at the Alhambra club, on the charge of selling liquor without a license, has been continued in the police court for a week.

There will be no contest of the probate of the will of the late Dr. Samuel Merritt, so far as his two nephews are concerned. A compromise with them has been agreed upon. In the opening of the will, it was discovered that the nephews had not been munificently provided for.

Fred A. Merritt was given an annuity of $300 for ten years and the remission of a debt of $4000. The debt was cut-labeled James Merritt was given a plain annuity of $500 for ten years.

Crumbs from a fat table were not satisfactory to the heirs, so they took steps toward contesting the probate of the will. The nephews secured the services of W. W. Foote and entered into an agreement with him whereby he was to press their claims to a conclusion for a contingent fee.

Mrs. C. M. Gracelon, the sister of Dr. Merritt, to whom was bequeathed the bulk of the estate, did not desire a bitter legal contest, so negotiations looking toward a legal compromise of the claims of the two nephews were entered into between Mr. Foote, Judge J. A. Stanley, attorney for Israel Lawton and Henry Rogers, the executor under the will, and Mrs. Gracelon and Noble Hamilton, her attorney. In fact, it is safe to say that terms with the nephews are all arranged. When the negotiations were pending, the nephews were shipped off up to Sissons in charge of Myron T. Dinsberry, the Ninth-street real estate agent. Though they are still there under the watchful eye of Dinsberry, they will be sent for at once to conclude arrangements to enter upon their inheritance.

The laying of the foundation of the Fifteenth-street engine house was completed yesterday. It is hoped to complete the structure by the 1st of April of next year.

Carl Abbott, L. H. Reiman and M. F. Hix of this city have been admitted to practice law by the Supreme Court. The case of A. L. Ross, a special officer of charge with having a truck driver, has been continued in the Police Court for a week.

Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Alden is threatened with punishment by a City Recorder (copy of M. Probably the shortest Thanksgiving Day proclamation ever issued in this country is that of Governor Waterman of that state, which has just reached this city. It compels only a few words, and is as follows: "In accordance with custom, I hereby appoint Thursday, November 27, a day of thanksgiving and prayer for all the blessings enjoyed during the past year."

When the new charter went into effect Miles Dooly held the position of second assistant engineer of the fire department, having been appointed to the position by the council at a salary of $60 per month. When the board of public works went into power, under the new charter, Dooly was discharged from his position. He has retained attorney M. C. Chapman to sue the city for his salary at $60 per month from the time of his discharge till the present time.

CHINESE REFORMS AND LOANS

It is reported that a group of American bankers has agreed to float a $50,000,000 bond issue for the Chinese government, and that the proceeds of this new loan are to be used in promoting productive industrial enterprises and reforming the Chinese currency system.

It will be recalled that the other foreign loan—the so-called Hsiao-Cze-Chuan railroad loan of $30,000,000—has given both China and the powers concerned in it a good deal of trouble, not only because too many wanted "slices" of the loan but also because there was considerable agitation in the Celestial Kingdom against further dependence on foreigners. Only a few days ago, it seems the Peking authorities had to be told that the deal must be consummated and that the bargain was binding.

If China is to undergo great political reforms she will need help of western money. Reforms mean loans, and loans

RESISTING THE GOVERNMENT

Some lights on national character or national customs at least may be gathered from the orthodox methods of resisting government in different European countries. In France the who don't like things, put into effect a far as possible a universal scheme for making themselves uncomfortable. They try to have no gas or electric lights, no postal deliveries, no trains, no newspapers. When they have stood it as long as they can, they drop it and meditate. The fact that the people of Paris had the water shut off for twenty-four hours would be accepted by all concerned as a valid reason why a railroad switchman in Marcellus should get a quarter of a cent an hour more pay.

In Germany, when a considerable number got unusually down on the government, they assemble to the number of several thousand and walk along the street.

CARNEGIE AND HEROES

Thirteen men who performed heroic services in connection with the Cherry mine disaster have been awarded Carnegie medals for bravery.

The news columns have given publicity to the matter, though we observe that it is Mr. Carnegie's name which appears in the headlines, rather than the heroes whose deeds were recognized and commended.

There can be nothing to commend in a spiteful or petty snarl which would detract from Mr. Carnegie's diploma of kindness, in commending the deeds of men who were at Cherry. But to the collective mind there is just some something slightly askew in the fact that it is not a medal for a private citizen, not so popular with the men of blarney, to recognize the rare and special virtues of men who were able to forget theirseives, and perform valorous services for others.

It would be much more to the point if the United States government were the awarder of these medals for bravery, and the awarding of them would prove to the government would prove to the nation that we believe in the valor of gold medals by the Pittsburgh magnate. To paraphrase the motto would be an iron medal, and have therewith, than a medal of gold from one who is "in love."

There is no need to point out the fact that Mr. Carnegie's beneficence have always looked simply—that his name has always been carved upon the plate to leave. The significant point is that the recognition of his name is not more a duty than it is a pleasure, and if there be medals to award, the nation should do the awarding.—St. Louis Times

THE many cards that are already out for luncheons, teas, dinners, receptions and for bridge afternoons betokens a social season full of interest and much promise. Mrs. Charles Butters was the hostess on Thursday at one of the largest and most elaborate planned luncheons given this year on this side of the bay. Mrs. Butters' beautiful home, Roselawn, at Claremont, is admirably adapted for entertaining, but her dining room will not seat for luncheon so large a company as she wished to entertain on Thursday, so the Country Club was chosen for the environment of a luncheon most elaborate in its details and delightful in many ways. There were over sixty guests, who were all seated at one large table, the decorations of which were beautifully planned. Myriads of love yucca Maryland roses were most artistically arranged down the center of the long table. There have never been so many roses seen at any social function in many months. They were superb, and in such exquisite tones of pale pink that they made the most charming color study. Rarely has there been a luncheon at which one saw such stunning costumes. The gowns are planned along magnificent designs this year and the hats are stunning and especially becoming. The woman who is a guest at a social function these days is usually seen at her best. Mrs. Butters' guests included many prominent people from Oakland and Berkeley, as well as well-known young matrons from our own city. Mrs. Butters was beautifully gowned in pale blue messaline, exquisitely trimmed in lace. She wore diamond ornaments and her costume was completed by a becoming hat in tones of black, elaborately trimmed with ostrich plumes.

Mrs. Benjamin Ide Wheeler sat on Mrs. Butters' right and was a very charming study. Mrs. Wheeler spent some months abroad and in the East this year and she brought back some very pretty gowns for her "at home" at Berkeley.

Mrs. Frank C. Havens was one of the most attractive guests at the luncheon. No matter how closely he may follow well established fashions there is always that touch of individuality that marks a unique and original personality. The picture is of dominant interest—lovely and full of charm. Mrs. Havens wore a New York gown of black and white lace, with a handsome hat in the same tones to match, and she wore superb diamonds.

Most of the afternoon costumes seen at this elaborate luncheon showed the gown cut in Dutch neck effect, many being finished off with the V shape that is always becoming. And most of the guests wore elaborate diamond ornaments.

Mrs. A. A. Moore, Jr., wore wonderful jewels. To a long diamond chain were attached superb diamond pendants—so many of them that the corsage was almost covered with the brilliant gems.

Mrs. John F. Connors was a study in pale blue. Her costume, planned in perfect taste, was becoming and effective. The gown of pale blue chiffon over blue messaline was hand embroidered and the costume was completed with a wide black picture hat, very elaborately trimmed in pale blue ostrich plumes.

Mrs. William G. Henshaw, who has recently returned from Europe, wore a Paris gown in white effects, her gown lighted with a superb chain of diamonds and with diamond pendants.

Mrs. Wickham Havens was, as usual, one of the most striking of the younger matrons. She wore a most becoming gown—showing the latest of the new skirt effects and trimmed with very rare lace. It represented a metallic effect in silver brown. Her hat showed an odd and most becoming design. It was built of ostrich lace and elaborately trimmed in brown fur.

Mrs. A. A. Moore wore a very hard some gown of heavy black velvet trimmed in Chantilly lace.

Among the guests were Mrs. Valentin, Sr. and Mrs. John J. Valentine, Jr. The former wore an elaborate gown showing black and white effects and Mrs. Valentine, Jr., has rarely looked so well. She wore a handsome gown in Persian effects in red and browns and her costume was completed by a wide black hat.

Mrs. James K. Moffitt (Pauline) wore a very becoming gown of brown velvet, with a hat to match the gown—a most effective design in brown fur.

Mrs. Frank Lampton Brown was in black. She wore a gown from New York, showing the clinging style of skirt, the corsage with Oriental trimmings. Her hat was a wide effect in black, with elaborate black plumes.

Mrs. William Thornton White wore a gown of apricot colored broadcloth and the hat to match the gown was trimmed in brown fur.

Mrs. J. P. Neville was among the most stunning of the guests. Her costume was in tones of black and white and she wore a large black hat with elaborate white plumes.

Mrs. Mark Requa looked specially well, as her gowns are always selected with judgment and much taste. She wore a specially handsome gown of dark blue messaline, the corsage showing a fine arrangement of Persian trimmings. Her hat, in tones of black, was effective and becoming.

Mrs. Harry Maxwell was gowned in green, the bodice showing a fine arrangement of hand embroidery and lace. A large black hat completed the costume.

Other costumes specially handsome were those of Mrs. Giles Easton, Mrs. George de Golia, Mrs. H. C. Capwell, Mrs. E. B. Braden, and from Berkeley those of Mrs. Henry Martinez and Mrs. P. R. Boone.

Mrs. Charles Butters, who came in for a few minutes when after luncheon coffee was being served, proved to be a very welcome guest. The assembled company who were Mrs. Butters' guests gave him a standing toast and surely with so many good wishes to speed him on his way good fortune must be waiting for him in the future.

Mrs. Butters' elaborate luncheon was most successful and the guests that she so hospitably entertained at the Claremont Country Club on Thursday have to thank her for a most delightful afternoon.

NEW DANCING CLUB.

"Le Dernier Cri Assembly" is the title of a new dancing club which gave its initial dance on Thursday evening at the Claremont Country Club. It is a matter of duty for the club to now live up to its name, for "the latest cry" means many things. Especially is this true in dancing, so we shall expect to see at these assemblies the new steps characteristic of the New York and London dances. The guests at these assembly dances are practically the same as those who used to attend Willard Barton's assemblies, only this year the responsibility rests upon many people instead of upon a few. The dances are also more informal, given as they are at the Country Club, where the members are used to the Saturday evening after dinner dances. The patronesses for each one of the series of dances are different and the guest list includes for the most part the younger matrons of the city.

The dance on Thursday evening was very successful and the patronesses were Mrs. George McNear, Jr., Mrs. Charles Tripler Hutchinson, Mrs. Harry East Miller, Mrs. Frank L. Brown, Miss Florine Brown, Mrs. William Thornton White, Mrs. George Greenwood, Mrs. Charles Wingate, Mrs. William Henshaw, Mrs. Bernard Ransom and Mrs. Harry Smith.

CARDS ARE OUT FOR MANY DATES.

Cards are out for many dates of more than the usual degree of interest. For Tuesday, the 15th, there are three dates. The choral section, under the direction of Paul Steindorff, will give a recital at the Ebell Club. Mrs. Frederick S. Stratton is chairman of this section and the singers include many prominent young matrons of the Ebell Club. On Tuesday also Mrs. Robert Fitzgerald will entertain about seventy-five of her friends at bridge, receiving her guests in her new home at Adams Point. The Crellins and Fitzgeralds have been in mourning and this is the first large affair that Mrs. Fitzgerald has given in this delightful new home.

The large McKibben reception at Berkeley is also set for Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. McKibben, Sr., entertaining in honor of her two daughters-in-law, who are both brides of the autumn.

On Wednesday, the 23d, Mrs. Willard Williamson will give a large luncheon at her Piedmont home and the Misses Englehardt have cards out for the 23d, when they will give a large tea in honor of Mrs. Francke. There are innumerable smaller card afternoons, so the November days are busy ones for those who care for the social round.

MISS ROONEY IS THE BRIDE OF LOUIS TITUS.

One of the notable weddings of the week was that of Mr. Louis Titus and Miss Alice Rooney, which took place in San Francisco on Tuesday evening at the bride's home on Guerrero street. The Titus home was for many years in this city, on Myrtle street, when Mr. Titus was a student in the high school, and later at Berkeley. Mrs. Rooney spent four years in the university and met many of the women students from our side of the bay. Their permanent home is to be at Piedmont.

The Rooney home in San Francisco is a large, old-fashioned house, with one of the beautiful old gardens that one very rarely sees across the bay. The house was beautifully decorated for the wedding, large chrysanthemums lending color to the scheme. In the drawing room there was an improvised altar of roses and chrysanthemums, the altar carrying a superb altar cloth, embroidered in gold, and made bright with myriads of lighted candles. They were loaned from the Paulist church. The bride wore an imported gown of white satin, the lace overdress elaborately trimmed in pearls. She wore a long wedding veil of tulle, and carried a shower bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley.

The bride's attendants were her sisters, the Misses Teresa and Edna Rooney, the former named for her aunt, the late Mrs. Teresa Fair.

Miss Rooney, who was maid of honor, wore a gown of pale pink chiffon and carried pink roses.

Miss Edna Rooney wore a Parisian costume exceedingly unique and very effective in color tone. The gown was of blue chiffon, with an overdress of spangles, and a cerise grille added a brilliant touch of color to the gown.

Mrs. Rooney wore an exceedingly handsome gown of lavender satin, elaborately trimmed in lace.

The groom's attendants were Duncan McDuffie and Walter LeMert of this city.

Among the guests from this side of the bay were J. F. Carlston, the Hugh McCall Websters, the Willard Williamsons.

The wedding presents were specially beautiful. There were silver coffee and tea services, and entire service for the table of flat silver. There were also books, pictures and furniture for the new home which Mr. Titus plans to build on the sixty-acre tract which he owns at Piedmont. His presents to his bride included several strings of valuable pearls, a diamond watch, many beautiful diamond rings and a limousine. Mr. and Mrs. Titus left on Thursday for New York City, planning to sail immediately for Europe, where they will travel for some time.

LUNCHEON GIVEN AT THE EBELL CLUB.

Among the interesting social affairs of the week was the luncheon at the Ebell Club on Tuesday. During the winter the Ebell Club holds often the center of interest because, being the oldest club in the state, it has the honor of entertaining visiting guests of importance. Prominent families in our city, when entertaining Eastern friends or relatives, always include an Ebell luncheon in the list of notable events in their honor.

The luncheon on Tuesday was attended by more than three hundred guests, and was specially enjoyable in many ways.

The large hall of the club made an exceedingly attractive picture. In the center was the large table presided over by the president, Mrs. Woodbury, and each of the other tables was presided over by a member of the large receiving party. The decorations in the dining hall were specially effective, showing on each table a fine arrangement of gorgeous yellow chrysanthemums. The many guests of the afternoon were received by Mrs. Charles J. Woodbury and by Miss Mabel Gray, who was the receiving hostess of the afternoon. Miss Gray, who for two terms was president of the Ebell Club, is one of its most popular members. She has such rare charm of manner, such a sweet and winning personality, that she is always a most successful hostess. Another bright member of the receiving party was Mrs. Charles Leonard Smith, who is the vice-president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. Smith is one of the most able officers in the state, with exceedingly fine literary training, and her thoughtfulness and good breeding has always made her one of the most popular of the state officers.

The speaking was from the round table, and Mrs. Woodbury's clever introductions are always a feature of the club's programs. She is an exceedingly clever speaker, with a rare sense of humor and a play of wit that are factors in very charming addresses.

Among the guests was Mrs. Edward of the Federation, is making a tour of the state, and she spoke of the "possibilities" of the northern women of the state and the achievements of our own section. Mrs. Waters being from Los Angeles, very modestly refrained from mentioning that section.

She read a humorous essay, quoted from a leading magazine, and one could appreciate certain satirical parts of the theme, even though most of the listeners did not in the least agree as to the genesis of the modern woman's club.

Dr. Annette Buckle's talk was interesting and instructive and was a plea for help for defective children. Doctor Buckle has for years been interested in the work of the Mary E. Smith philanthropy and through that has been personally brought in touch with the problem. It goes to the hearts of the directors of the Smith cottages when they are not able to take defective children.

Among the guests of honor at the Ebell luncheon were:

Mrs. R. J. Waters, state president; Mrs. Lovell White, president of the California Club; Mrs. Frank B. Weeks, president of the Adelphean Club; Mrs. Mary C. Childs, Mrs. E. A. Kluegel, Miss Melville Connors, Mrs. Charles Allardice, president of the Tea Club; Mrs. Ernest Page, president of the Twentieth Century Club; Mrs. J. W. Orr, Miss Wilson, Mrs. J. K. McLean, Madame Sofie Neustadt, Doctor Annette Buckle.

The Ebell Club is to be complimented on the dainty menu served to the guests, and a feature of the luncheon was the exceedingly fine music of Von Helm's stringed orchestra, the intermezzo from the "Love Tales of Hoffman" being rendered with fine shading and with a very sympathetic interpretation.

There were many notable costumes to be seen at this the largest luncheon of the month. Mrs. Woodbury was gowned in gray liberty satin, the corsage trimmed in lace.

Mrs. Charles Smith wore a most attractive gown of liberty satin in the new Oriental design, beautifully designed and most effective.

Miss Mabel Gray wore a reception gown of pale blue liberty satin in Empire style, and with the clinging effect which marks the newer gowns of the season.

Among the very handsome costumes of the afternoon were those worn by Mrs. J. Loran Pease, Mrs. George Gross, Mrs. George D. Gray, Mrs. Giles H. Gray, Mrs. Clark L. Goddard, Mrs. George Hammer, Mrs. Edward Henshaw, Mrs. Hugh Hogan, Mrs. Gilbert Curtiss, Mrs. J. K. McLean, Mrs. J. Cal. Ewing, Mrs. Henry D. Bull, Mrs. George Hammer.

Among the guests was Mrs. Edward

A. Kluegel, who has recently returned from Europe, and who was given a most cordial welcome home by many friends. Mrs. Kluegel wore a Paris gown of black velvet, with a hat in black and white effects to match the gown.

After the luncheon there was an informal reception, when the Ebell members were given the opportunity of meeting personally the officers of the State Federation.

MR. AND MRS. JOSIAH STANFORD BACK FROM EUROPE.

Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Stanford and their little daughter, Helen, have returned from their European trip and have opened for the winter their country home at Warm Springs. The Stanfords spent the summer and autumn abroad, and traveled extensively in Germany and England, making a specially long stay in London.

COMPLIMENTARY AFFAIRS FOR MISS STONE.

Many complimentary affairs are to be arranged this winter in honor of Harriet Stone, the eldest daughter of the Tabor Stones. She was in the receiving party at the large tea which Mrs. A. S. Baldwin gave at her home on Presidio Terrace to introduce her daughter. Miss Stone looked specially well in a very handsome gown of white satin, with an overdress of orange chiffon. Miss Marian Miller was also at the tea. She is a specially stunning girl, with very beautiful coloring. She wore a gown of pink lavender messaline, with orchids.

Miss Ida Sonntag, a very successful debutante of last year, is to be a hostess on the sixteenth, planning a bridge game for that afternoon, and making Miss Harriet Stone her guest of honor.

OAKLAND GIRLS IN SAN FRANCISCO.

Two Oakland girls, Miss Ernestine McNear and Miss Harriet Stone, are having a very good time in the ranks of the San Francisco debutantes. Some girls from prominent families on our side of the bay have preferred not to make any formal debut, notably Miss Marguerite Ogden and Miss Polly Chikering. The university is at odds and if the girls prefer a college education there is not time for the social activities of a debutante season.

Miss Margaret Moore, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Moore is another charming young girl who did not make her debut this year; instead she is doing freshman work at the university. After months of European travel, Miss Moore spent a year in the Spence school in New and eucalyptus trees. The flower garden is specially lovely, with roses and sweet peas everywhere, and there are many kinds of fruit and vegetables. Vines are all over the big verandas, and in this country shooting lodge one finds an ideal suburban home. The Richards' town house is on Alice street, where their guests are always entertained in very hospitable fashion.

MR. AND MRS. WHITE TO ENTERTAIN.

Mr. and Mrs. William Thornton White have sent out cards for the evening of Friday, November 18. They are making their guests of honor Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Knowles, and the cards announce "Dancing at nine o'clock."

Mr. and Mrs. Knowles (Ruth Kales) recently returned from their wedding trip to the southern part of the State, and are at the Kales home on Lake street. They are planning to build their own home in the near future.

The dancing party will include for the most part the young friends of the hostess and guests of honor, and Mr. and Mrs. White will entertain in their new home, which is one of the most artistic in the Vernon Heights district.

PICTURES IN THE MIDDLE.

Miss Genevieve Pattiani, whose picture appears in tonight's Meddler, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Pattiani, and her wedding to Ensign Allen Olson will take place at the family home in Alameda in the near future.

The wedding will be an elaborate military ceremony. Miss Mildred Lansing will attend as maid of honor and Miss Muriel Pattiani will not as flower girl. The exact date of the wedding has not been set, as the Vicksburg, on which Ensign Olson is an officer, is on its way from Panama. It will be stationed at Iloilo Island, and the navy set are making preparations for entertaining the affianced couple.

Miss Mildred Wells is the daughter of Judge Wells of 1831 Telegraph avenue, and is a belle among the younger set of this city. She is a member of the Junior Assembly and a number of other dancing clubs about the bay. She will make her bow to society in another winter.

Mrs. Edward de Lavea, of Orinda Park is one of the best known matrons on this side of the bay, where she has been a frequent hostess. She is at present in San Francisco, where she will spend the winter, returning to this city in the early spring.

Mrs. Henry P. Hook, whose home in Piedmont is the scene of many social gatherings, is an active worker in club and charitable organizations and is among those who are working enthusiastically for the success of the doll show in December. Mrs. Hook has been given charge of the grab bag on that occasion.

A GAY SEASON ACROSS THE BAY.

The San Francisco season has started with a rush and society looks forward to the gayest winter in years. The Kirmess for five nights this week has occupied every evening with dinners preceding and gay uppers following, and hundreds of carriages and automobiles banked up before the Central Theater, which has been gay with its greens, flags and flowers.

MISS GENEVIEVE PATTIANI of Alameda, fiancée of Ensign Allen Olson, who arrives next week. —Scherz, Photo.

Monday and Tuesday evenings the theater was crowded to capacity. Wednesday and Thursday were "off" nights, though even then there were few seats to spare, and Friday evening was sold out on Tuesday. The boxholders embraced the occasion to entertain their friends in groups, and Monday night showed as gay and fashionable an audience as ever crowded a theater. Among the boxholders were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Irwin, who entertained a party and afterward gave a supper at the St. Francis in the white and gold room. The other members of the party were Miss Julia Langhorne, Miss Helene Irwin, Templeton Crocker and W. H. Irwin Jr. Mrs. Henry Scott had a box, in which she entertained a number of friends and afterward had them at supper at the St. Francis. Mrs. Scott wore a stunning gown of black chiffon over white, with cerise about the bodice. Among Mrs. Scott's guests was Mrs. Crockett and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Irving Scott. Miss Jennie Crocker, Miss Virginia Jolliffe and Walter Martin formed a box party, which afterward had supper together. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Foster Dutton chaperoned Miss Florence Hopkins and Miss Marion Zelle and a corresponding number of men, and afterward supped together. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Deering entertained at supper Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schlacks and Mrs. Ben Lombard of Los Angeles. Mr. and Mrs. M. H. de Young had as their guests in their box Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O. Tobin and Mr. and Mrs. George Cameron. Mrs. Tobin wore a handsome Empire gown of Alice blue satin, with a wide satin band of the same shade, held together by Cecil Bruner roses in her hair, and Mrs. Cameron wore pink satin and gold brocade. Mr. and Mrs. Fred McNear, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. Will Taylor occupied a box together. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clarence Breeden had as their box and supper guests Mr. and Mrs. C. O. G. Miller and Mr. and Mrs. William Greer Hitchcock. Mrs. Breeden wore a handsome gown of old rose satin, with a band of the same shade in her hair. The dress was demi-decollete. Mrs. Miller wore black with a garniture of rhinestones about the décolletage, and Mrs. Hitchcock wore black and gold. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Laupson Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Knowles and Mr. and Mrs. William Thornton White had a box together. Mrs. White wore one of the fascinating little new caps of dull gold lace. Miss Florence Hopkins also appeared in one of these fetching creations. Mrs. William Black, who with Dr. Black and Mr. and Mrs. Tyson were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fennimore at supper, wore a cap of white lace trimmed with pink roses. General and Mrs. Oscar Long, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Clay and Mrs. George Wheaton formed another party. Among the others in the audience were Judge and Mrs. James A. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mathieu, Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Gregg, Mr. and Mrs. Kehrlein, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Grace, Mr. and Mrs. Norman McLaren, Miss Constance McLaren, Mrs. Patrick Calhoun, the Misses Calhoun, Mrs. Barron, the Misses Barron, Mrs. James Langhorne, the Misses Newhall, Mrs. W. Mayo Newhall, Mrs. Lansing Kellomäki in a decollate black gown, Miss Alice Hager, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dean and Miss Dean, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wilson entertained Mr. and Mrs. William Cluff, Mr. and Mrs. Breuner, Miss Cluff and Mr. Kehrlein. It seemed to be the general opinion that the dancing this year was better than that of last year. Every dance, even on the first night, had a certain finish that lifted the performance far above that of "Professor Napoleon" of last year. Among the men Emil Kehrlein, Willard Barton and Charles de Young carried off the honors, and among the girls Miss Wolff, who did an excellent imitation of Maud Allen's "Beautiful Blue Danube," and the four charming little girls who danced in "Winter" carried off the palm. Willard Barton was especially good in the polo and Toy Shop dances, and Charles and Kathleen de Young were excellent in their Hungarian dance. The dolls in the toy shop were cunning and danced well, especially Florence Cluff. Little Beulah Jean Pollak was captivating as the fairy and Mrs. Frederic Palmer did a toe dance very well. Mrs. Lathrop Ellinwood was quite fascinating in her fire dance a la Loin Fuller, as were the solo dancers among the Pierrettes. The English girls and London chappies were charming, as were the Pierrots and Pierrettes, and the Hungarians were beautifully costumed. Taken all in all, the seasons seemed to be the prettiest dance. The solo dancers of the Gondollers were good, and they sang well, as did the yodlers. Frank Lampton Brown presided over the

York, and is now taking up a college course at Berkeley. All girls are not fitted for college careers, and the girl who stays at home has sometimes a far better outlook. She is not by any means idle or frivolous because she does not go to college. She is simply learning her life lessons another way. Miss Ernestine McNear has as her guest Miss Marion Turner, a charming young girl from St. Louis. They are both of the blonde type of beauty, and both were guests at the recent Greenway ball across the bay. On Monday Miss Isabel Chase presided at a delightful luncheon at the Town and Country Club, at which Miss Turner was the guest of honor. Among the guests was Miss McNear, charming Ethel Crocker and Dora Winn, whose coming out reception was such a social success last week.

MISS HARVEY GOES ACROSS THE BAY.

Miss Lou Harvey, who has many friends on this side of the bay, is planning to spend the winter in San Francisco, and has taken apartments at the Hotel Victoria. Miss Harvey spends a great deal of time each season over here, when she is the guest of Mrs. John A. Stanly and of Mrs. T. C. Coghill.

SPENDING THE WINTER IN SAN FRANCISCO.

Mrs. Charles Macdermot has been spending the winter in San Francisco at the Fairmont, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Proctor (Flora Macdermot) have been there also. Mrs. Macdermot had a box at the Kirmess, in which she entertained guests every evening. She is a most generous and gracious hostess, to whom her young friends are indebted for many bright, good times. Mrs. Proctor entertained at dinner at the Fairmont last week, her guests going later to the Kirmess. Among the dinner guests were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tobin, Miss de Young, Charles de Young and Willard Barton.

MR. AND MRS. HOLT LEAVE FOR NEW YORK.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker Holt left last week for New York, and in a few days they are to sail for South America, having planned an extensive tour of the Argentine Republic. They will return to California by way of Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lohman are making their home at Mountain View. Mrs. Lohman (Grace Holt) drives her own touring car, so she is able to enjoy all the advantages that a suburban home may offer.

MR. AND MRS. WM. WATT DOWN FROM NAPA.

Mr. and Mrs. William Watt (Olive Middleton) came down from Napa for the Kirmess and were guests at the Fairmont. At the first night of the Kirmess Mrs. Watt wore a very elaborate gown of white embroidered in gold designs.

While the country home of the Watts is in Napa, Mrs. Watt has kept up many of her Oakland friendships, and is often a guest at the Crellin and Robert Fitzgerald homes here.

WILLIAM MEIN COMING HOME.

Mr. and Mrs. William Mein and their two children, who have spent the past four years in South Africa, sailed from Cherbourg last week, and are due to arrive in America today. The William Meins are going first to Washington, where they will be the guests of the Gardner Williams, Mrs. Mein's parents.

In a few days William Mein will come West for a visit to his mother, Mrs. Thomas Mein. The Gardner Williams are planning to spend the coming summer in California.

The Meins have large business interests in South Africa, and Robert Mein is planning to leave for Johannesburg next week.

THE DAY OF THE HUNTER.

It is the day of the hunter, and it is quite useless to send out dinner invitations these days without finding out the hunting dates of one's friends. The results of hunting expeditions are finding their way to different homes, and it is needless to say the many courtesies are much appreciated.

Among the many hunters making good records this season are J. R. Burnham, Edward McGary, Wickham Havens, J. Walter Scott, George Cross, Louis Titus, Arthur Goodall, W. G. Henshaw, Tyler Henshaw, Hon. Guy C. Earl, W. W. Richards.

It is not generally known that one of the most important shooting lodges in the State is "Green Lodge," owned by W. W. Richards of this city. It embraces about 200 acres. Mr. and Mrs. Richards' cottage is arranged as a regular country home, with beautifully appointed guest rooms, and everything that pertains to a country estate. There are many different ponds and "blinds," and one pond is for the exclusive use of Mrs. Richards. There are levees running through the marsh, planted with vines, fruit trees

URGED AS NECESSITY

Encinal City Would Do Away With Arks and Sacks As Nuisance

ALAMEDA, Nov. 12.—"Alameda is just a few notches higher than any other city on the coast in the matter of public health," said Dr. S. P. Terry, president of the board of health, before the committee of the whole of the city council last night, when he was urging the council to reconsider its action in tabling the recommendation of the health board that an ordinance be passed providing for the distribution of milk in individual retainers.

"The milk mortality is less than in any other city about the bay and that is because we pay particular attention to the milk, which is one of the best foods for babies," continued Dr. Terry.

EXPRESSES SURPRISE

The health board president said that he was surprised that the recommendation of the health authorities had been turned down. When informed by Councilman William Hammond Jr. that such an ordinance would increase the cost of the milk to the consumer he stated that the health board did not understand it that way and he expressed the belief that the milk could be sold in individual retainers at the same price as bulk because of the saving in loss of a quart and a half to every three gallons when sold in bulk and because of the saving in the cost of the single service retainers.

Dr. Terry reverted to the milk question after it had been discussed a "some length by members of the council, J. M. Taylor, manufacturer of single service retainers, and Smith Anderson and F. N. Daniels, representing the Milk Dealers' Association of this city.

ONCE TABLED.

Although the council tabled the individual service ordinance at its last meeting, it again took up the matter last night and decided to discuss it further at the next meeting.

Taylor addressed the committee and urged the passage of an individual retainer ordinance on the ground that it would protect the milk from germs and dust and exhibited his single service retainers for which he holds orders from milk dealers in the east. J. M. Taylor, who claimed that the milk becomes contaminated when poured out several times from cans in a wagon in the street.

He also declared that there would be no increase in the cost of a quart of milk if it was delivered in individual retainers as the dealers could handle it at less cost. The fundamental reason for the retainer, however, Taylor said, is that it will make the milk more pure and prevent watering of the lactal fluid.

MILK NOT ADVANCED.

Smith Anderson stated that milk is now being sold in bulk at nine cents a quart and in bottles at ten cents a quart. If sold in individual retainers it would be ten cents a quart, he said. Anderson stated, however, that the price of milk should be passed as the board of health desires it, in order to make the milk purer. He also argued that the price of milk has not been advanced by the retailers in the last few years, although the cost of feed and delivery has increased greatly.

Councilman Hammond, Walker and Probst, who opposed a proposed ordinance recommended by the health board, asked Taylor why the dealers did not use the single service retainers if they are cheaper than the large cans. Taylor replied that one did not like to start the service unless given assurance that the cans would be used. He said that some would use the old bulk method and make the milk go further with a little water.

NEED CREMATORY.

That a garbage crematory is an urgent necessity was the statement made before the committee of the whole of the city council last night by Dr. S. P. Terry and F. W. Schutte, members of the Board of Health. Both declared that the depositing grounds have now been filled and that wherever garbage is dumped complaints are made by nearby residents.

BERKELEY, Nov. 12.—A recommendation that the city council initiate the appointment of a committee to gather information on the formation of a water district and with power to act on the actual work of forming the district was unanimously passed at a conference meeting of the improvement club of this district, last evening.

This action followed a report by the chairman of the conference water committee, George C. Burlingame, the following being the recommendation passed upon:

"We believe that a water district should be formed at once. The nature of water supply is of such importance and of such magnitude that it requires more attention and fuller consideration than it is possible for the municipal officials to find time from their other duties to give it, and more authority than is within their prerogative.

COMMUNITY QUESTION.

"It is, moreover, a community and not a municipal question and demands to be handled by a body representative of the entire community. The water supply of the entire community is at stake. It is also of such a nature and of such importance that it is highly desirable to concentrate the authorities of its consideration, and to clearly fix the responsibility of whatever action may be taken.

REQUIRE INVESTIGATION.

"There should be a body of men whose exclusive duty and specific authority should require of them a full and complete investigation of the entire water question as affecting the entire community and upon whom shall rest the responsibility for initiation of practical measures looking to a publicly owned and operated water supply. They should have the power to require testimony, examine records, secure expert opinions, pay necessary expenses out of funds appropriated for this use, secure opinions and make recommendations subject to final endorsement by the people.

"We believe the conference committee would do well to urge the Berkeley city officials to take prompt legislative action forming of a water district comprising as a portion of the bay community as possible.

WOULD GO ALONE.

"Should other municipalities fail, however, to respond to this movement, then the city of Berkeley should, in the interest of the people of Berkeley, appoint and provide funds for whose authority it should be to investigate this subject thoroughly and to report the results of its investigation.

It might be to proceed against the owners for not having sewers after the city has installed the Fernald avenue sewer.

Kearney stated that he would not allow the ark owners to run sewers across his property to connect with the Fernald boulevard sewer. The arks are located on tidelands and as to whether the aqueducts have rights or not is now before the supreme court. As Kearney would not allow the ark owners to connect their places with sewers they would have to move, it is argued, it proceeded against for maintaining a nuisance.

PARENTS URGED TO AID BOY SCOUTS

Letter of Appeal Sent Alameda Fathers and Mothers by Guard Lieutenant.

ALAMEDA, Nov. 12.—Lieutenant C. F. Macgregor of Company G, National Guard of California, has written the following letter of appeal to the parents of Alameda boys, asking their co-operation in the work of the organization of boy scouts:

"To the Mothers and Fathers of Alameda: There is a movement on foot to make a better boy of your son that should appeal to every parent and adult in Alameda. We all know how hard it is to interest the boy in something that will be useful to him in future life. By having a better boy of your son that is coming a member of the boy scouts he is absolutely certain to be made better, morally, mentally and physically. At the same time, all of this is accomplished at what might be called play.

OPPORTUNITY OF LIFE.

"All boys like to play soldier, and right here he has an opportunity of his life. He not only wears a uniform (which can be bought at cost), but is taught all the useful things that a real soldier has to know, without any cost to the parent. Many parents spend from $500 to $1000 a year to have their boy attend a military school. No boy's future has ever been marred by a military training. He will walk more erect, take more pride in looking neat and clean, and any duty which he has to perform will be done more cheerfully.

"In San Francisco there are already nearly 2000 boy scouts. A night this month a company of them are to give an exhibition drill at the Dreamland rink, San Francisco, given at a tournament by the Coast Artillery. This company is composed of boys from all walks of life. Many United States army officers' sons are members of the boy scouts. I believe that the future welfare of the United States is in the hands of the boy scouts.

"Read carefully the oath the boy scout has to make. It will ask you to do what you would like to have your boy belong to such an order.

"Last night the initial meeting was held in a room at the Hotel. Twenty-seven boys were enrolled, and I must confess that I was surprised and gratified at the rapidity with which the boys acquired the first lesson.

"The first few meetings will have to be held in the evenings. All arrangements can be made for a hall in the daytime.

"P. S.—The next meeting will be held at Armory Hall Monday, November 14, at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. Mothers and fathers send the boys or, better still, bring them yourselves.

NEWS OF THE OIL FIELDS

OIL SECTIONS OF STATE ACTIVE WITH OPERATIONS

News From California Field Give Evidence of Prosperity; Many New Strikes Are Reported

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 12.—The Esplanade Consolidated Oil Company, which has undertaken the development of a great expanse of territory in the Elko Hills, Midway and Sunset districts, has curtailed developments to a large extent. A big force of men and superintendents has been laid off.

The company is composed of the interests of locators controlling conflicting rights to acreage of the withdrawn government land in this district. A compromise coalition was formed, headed by Captain John Barness of this city, and the right of each set of locators were respected in the company. An effort was made to bond the corporation for the purpose of pursuing the development work, but the uncertainty attached to the government disposition of the withdrawn land has been responsible for the failure of the bonding companies to approve of the formation and the result is that the company's operations are being curtailed.

MORE ASSOCIATED WELLS.

The Associated Oil Company, which recently purchased the Pioneer Midway property in the Upper Midway field, is preparing to drill eleven new wells on the holding immediately. Two crews of rig builders are at work. There are nine wells on the property, five of them on the producing list.

The Durango property of J. B. Dabney, on section 20, in the North Midway, is down 700 feet and the good showings of gas and oil have been had. The Brookshire Oil Company, section 24, 31-1-2 in the Upper Midway field, resumed drilling this week after a shutdown of more than one month. The company plans to run one string of tools for the present.

Drilling on the property of the Revard Oil Company, one of the largest operating concerns in this field, will be resumed in a week or ten days after a shutdown of several months. McKittick is feeling the activity in the Lost Hills and Elk Hills territory, and every day there is call for men and teams for this section. The Elk Hills seems to be attracting considerable attention in the line of new work and many McKittick teamsters are hauling to that field.

McKITTICK ACTIVE AGAIN.

McKittick is showing renewed signs of activity following the usual summer lull. Returning drillers and tool dressers find a demand for their labor, and a number of the larger leases closed down during the summer are now preparing to resume operations.

The C. L. Oil Company owned and operated by Clarence J. Berry and Frank L. Zeller, both well known in this city, is ready to put a new well on the pump. The well was completed recently and when just about ready to be made a producer it suddenly took fire and the rig was destroyed.

TIMES JURY CALLS MORE WITNESSES

Sheaf of Subpoenae Issued in Dynamiting Inquiry; Mrs. Lavin Quizzed.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 12.—Although the present list of witnesses is not exhausted, the special grand jury which is investigating the Times explosion, issued another sheaf of subpoenae yesterday. Who will be summoned and from where is not known.

Mrs. Belle Lavin, reputed friend of the alleged dynamite conspirators, who was brought to this city from San Francisco several weeks ago under a warrant sworn by Earl Rogers, charging her with the murder of Charles Johnson, one of the Times victims, was the principal witness at yesterday afternoon's session of the inquiry.

Mrs. McCarty, proprietress of one of the lodging houses at which Schuchardt, the suspected conspirator, stayed in San Francisco, also testified. Both women remained in the jury room only a short time, but were instructed to stay within call, as they would be summoned again.

ADJOURNS UNTIL MONDAY.

After hearing the two women and examining Detective Thomas Rice, who was present when the infernal machine exploded on the mark sidewalk opposite the grand jury adjourned. More than 10,000 redwood and pine trees are being cut for the purpose, and the pavilion will have the appearance of a forest, with thousands of electric lights glimmering among the green branches and reflecting from the brass work and highly polished floors of the scores of beautiful 1911 cars on exhibit. The effect, it is believed, will be most striking.

The Oakland show will be unique in the way of automobile shows on the Pacific Coast. In that it will have many features to attract the attention of people who have little or no interest in motor cars and in motor things generally. One of these features will be the decorations, which have been planned by Decorator-General Victor L. Podesta. There will be on a more lavish and costly scale than ever attempted any automobile show west of New York.

Mr. Podesta depicted upon a vast forest effect for the nation as the most striking and beautiful background for the largest number of automobiles ever exhibited at a western show. His plans call for 10,000 redwood and pine trees, and he is now on the big timber lands at Boulder Creek, of H. L. Middleton, at Boulder Creek, supervising fifty men at work cutting the trees. To get the trees down the mountains to the railroad at Boulder Creek seventy pack mules are being used. It is estimated that it will take ten freight cars to bring the required number of trees to Oakland.

GREAT CROWDS VISIT CONTRA COSTA'S FAIR

POINT RICHMOND, Nov. 12.—It is expected that fully 40,000 persons will have visited the big Contra Costa county fair by tonight, the fair having opened Thursday night after a day's postponement owing to the inclement weather. Visitors are coming in throngs from the surrounding towns and Richmond presents the busiest scene witnessed for a number of years. The products on exhibition at the fair are the best ever seen in the county.

MOISSANT TO FLY ACROSS CONTINENT

Man Who Soared From Paris to London Will Seek the Hearst Prize.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—John B. Moissant, the aviator who flew from Paris to London and who last week won the prize for circling the Statue of Liberty, in New York harbor, will attempt to win the $50,000 prize offered by William Randolph Hearst to coast across the United States. He said:

"I am planning to fly for the Hearst prize, because I think that the coast-to-coast flight is the greatest thing an aviator can achieve in the immediate future."

GREAT GLORY.

"It offers not only a rich money prize, but great glory for the man who does it. I have not the slightest doubt that the man who wins the prize put up by Mr. Hearst will be immortal in the history of aviation."

Though he is a novice, having owned his Blériot craft only since last July, Moissant is noted the world over as one of the most expert cross-country flyers alive. He differs from all others in the way he steers his machine, instead of depending upon maps or upon his familiarity with the topography of the country, he uses a compass.

WILL FLY A STRAIGHT COURSE.

"If I should tackle the flight from ocean to ocean you may depend upon it that I will fly as straight a line as my compass will permit. I do not believe in avoiding obstacles. I think that by soaring high enough one can always glide clear of the dangers of the air. I have no fear of this reason I held my machine as a high altitude while flying from Paris to London, as well as while sailing around the Statue of Liberty."

Alfred Le Blau, who holds the record for flying more than sixty miles at the rate of sixty-six miles an hour, is also enthusiastic over Mr. Hearst's offer.

GADSKI CHARMS LARGE AUDIENCE

Hundreds Are Delighted With Beautiful Soprano and Repertoire.

Delighting hundreds with her magnificent voice, Madame Galski yesterday added to her reputation at the Ye Liberty theater. The beautiful soprano of the singer who has charmed the world was never heard to better advantage, and she was accorded an ovation seldom given an artist in Oakland.

The spacious playhouse was packed to the doors with the smart set of the city, not a seat being unoccupied when the singer made her appearance.

Her repertoire, long and full of the gems of song, was given in almost its entirety, and Madame Galski was generous with her encores. Melodious in German and English was rendered.

PLAN TO DISCUSS SALE OF CIGARETTES

"The Sale of Cigarettes to School Boys in Oakland" will be discussed by Philip James E. of the Prescott school at the Child's Welfare League open meeting next Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the hall, Fourteenth and Castro street. The meeting is open to the general public.

Superintendent J. W. McDermids will speak at the same time on "The Transition From the Schools of Yesterday to Those of Tomorrow," and his views on the need of more playgrounds, of the larger use of the school buildings and of trade education in the schools of the near future will be given to the women of the Child's Welfare League.

The league meets in the clubrooms of the Oakland Club, through the courtesy of that organization, which was chiefly instrumental in organizing the league, though there are now 100 different organizations represented on an equal footing.

Try a Can Today

and never again will you want the other kind

Mrs. Housewife, did it ever occur to you that all fruit cans and all labels cost about the same, but that the great difference lies in the contents, which is the only part you want? When you purchase a cheap can of fruit you can depend upon cheap contents. You cannot depend upon the beauty of the can for the quality of the contents.

We could save thousands of dollars annually by using cheap methods, such as peeling peaches the common way—with boiling lye, but we couldn't use the delicate tree-ripened, full-flavored fruit, which is the only kind we use. Besides, the lye would paralyze the flavor. Insist on getting
